

About the project

Our domain was baptized at the beginning of the 12th century by the Crusaders returning from Antioche, who saw similarities between this place and that Greek city with 400 towers.

Thus, it was given the name "La Tour d'Antioche". According to the historian Odol the history of this castle goes back to the Romans.

The tower that still stands proud in all its glory is probably Celtic.

An enormous tumulus stands above the fields less than 1 km away and according to legend a Celtic or Merovingian chief should be buried there sitting on his horse. Who knows!

The entire atmosphere on this domain has been marinated through the ages in a super marinade of Romans, Celts, Merovingians, Cathars, Templars, Capetingers and so on?

There is almost no Empire influence; this is not so surprising since the "Château la Tour d'Antioche" has been ruled for almost a millennium by a deep royalist dynasty.

Actually, we can still find a "Fleur de Lys", partly hidden behind a drainage pipe, with the mention of a name and dated 1819! Quite amazing, isn't it?

About the project.

it is an exceptional domain, beautifully located, in the middle of 20 hectares of private land, royal and certainly full of surprises.

As additional technical information we have the pleasure to tell you that the whole project will run mainly on its own green energy.

Solar heating systems, photovoltaic panels and some small wind generators will be installed in an ingenious way, discreet but efficient.

Finishing

All the restoration work will be done according to the same specifications.

We always use only noble materials, as original as it was or could have been before.

All our doors and cabinet doors are made of plain wood, and are hand made by our craftsmen in our workshops. You won't buy in your DIY shops what we will build for these stunning properties.

The models and the kind of wood used are selected together with the buyer, there are fixed prices for flooring, sanitary ware, tiles and kitchens.
